DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-15, 20-29 and 46-49, drawn to transmitting and receiving a communication wake-up signal, classified in class 713, subclass 310.
- II. Claims 16-19, drawn to a specific type of sequence signal, classified in class 375, subclass 377.
- III. Claims 30-45, drawn to modifying communication device settings, classified in class 713, subclass 100.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because many types of signals may be used to request a system wake-up from a reduced power consumption state. The subcombination has separate utility such as being used to relay types of data other than a wake-up request from a transmitting system to a receiving system.

Inventions III and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because many types of signals may be used to communicate data to a system for modifying the system settings. The subcombination has separate utility such as being used to transfer types of data other than system setting data from a transmitting system to a receiving system.

Inventions I and III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention I has separate utility such as requesting that a system return to a normal operating mode from a reduced power conservation mode. In the instant case, invention III has separate utility such as modifying communication device settings. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

A telephone call was made to Chad W. Miller on 3/15/05 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Paul B Yanchus whose telephone number is (571) 272-3678. The examiner can normally be reached on Mon-Thurs 8:00-6:00.
